

I claim :

1. A removable steering wheel having instant connection mechanism which comprising:

5 a locating seat installed on steering wheel, the locating seat having an extending post, the circumference of the extending post having at least one or more grooves;

a connection hub connected to steering wheel shaft, the connection hub having a center hole, the circumference of the connection hub having at least one or more apertures, the extending post of said locating sat being inserted into the center hole; 10 a control collar installed on outer circumference of said connection hub, the inner circumference of the control hub having a pushing flange;

at least one or more elastic pieces installed between said locating seat and said connection hub, one end of the elastic piece being fixed on said connection hub and the other end being form ed into a hook part;

15 a compression spring installed between said connection hub and said pushing flange;

Once said control collar moving forward by elastic force of said compression, said pushing flange can move to press on the hook part to push it into the groove of said locating seat, thus the combined steering wheel and connection hub can connect 20 with said locating seat firmly and quickly.